WASHINGTON TOWNS FLOODED BY SWOLLEN RIVERS

No Through Trains Into Seattle For A Week—Waters Receding And Conditions Improving

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18.—Although clear still reigns in the flooded districts at this place, conditions today are greatly improved. The waters are rapidly receding and all danger of further damage is about past. Rail communications have been re-established on a few spur tracks but no through trains will be running into or out of Seattle for a week. In the low Duwamish valley the water is still high and there is fear of further damage. The floods are receding to the southward beyond the Black river and business is being resumed at Auburn, Kent, Orillia, O'Brien and in the White and Green river valleys.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 17.—Ashman, private secretary to Governor Noyes, and State Attorney E. O. Freed are in Seattle to see what can be done by the civil authorities of the state to relieve the distress of the flood sufferers. If need arises they will turn over to the people of the flooded districts army tents, blankets and other necessary equipment.

WORST STORM KNOWN FOR MANY YEARS

Manitoba And Southern Saskatchewan Swept By Storms Which Blocades Transportation

Bulletin Special.
Winnipeg, Nov. 18.—Reports from all parts of western Manitoba and Southern Saskatchewan indicate that the present storm is the worst which has visited those sections in the last thirty years. William Whyte stated Saturday that at Moose Jaw more snow had already fallen than during the course of any previous winter he remembered, and there was little prospect of cessation. All trains have been held up, and it is only by the greatest exertion that any traffic has been moved.

Passenger trains at the rate of one a day have been forced through on the C.P.R. main lines, but the branches are blocked. During the storm a special alkali train collided with a switch engine in the yards at Elkhorn and the engineer and fireman of the switcher were injured. Several cars were derailed. At Beausejour a wheat train was derailed by a broken rail and six cars stacked in the ditch, no person injured. Trouble seems to have been caused by the fact that the main line west is somewhat out of the path of the thick of it. The retreating feature is that the temperature is not severe.

CHARGED WITH KILLING HIS BROTHER

South Dakota Farmer Arrested Charged With Awful Crime

Bulletin Special.
Minot, N.D., Nov. 18.—A report has reached this city of the arrest of Martin Hagen, a well known Ward county farmer, living two miles from Stanley on the sensational charge of murdering his own brother and shipping the dead body in a box with household articles. The sheriff of Ransom county was in Stanley on Thursday and made the arrest. According to the report Hagen formerly lived at Devil's Lake, moving from there to Stanley about a week ago. His brother disappeared about the same time and the authorities began an investigation. They now say that they have strong evidence against Hagen.

SOMEBODY BLUNDERED IN TURNING IN FIRE ALARM

Fire Brigade Lost Five Minutes Waiting To Learn Where The Fire Was

In connection with the unpleasant experience regarding the Seventh street fire last night, Wire Chief Macdonald said this morning: "I wish you would tell subscribers that when they want to report a fire, to not call for the fire hall or the fire hall number, but to report to the central that there is a fire, giving the location. Central will see that the report gets to the fire hall."

Someone blundered last night at the central telephone office when Dr. H. R. Smith rung up and asked for the fire hall to give notice of a fire which consumed a small house on Seventh street belonging to A. Blais. The fire broke out about 10.45 and Dr. Smith, who lives at 550 Jasper, quite close to the scene of the fire, ran to the telephone and called for the fire hall, saying, "Give me the fire hall," but not mentioning any number. A man with a broken accent answered. Dr. Smith reported the fire and told where it was located. The doctor said he noticed at the time that the man at the other end did not seem to be much impressed by the announcement, but having called for the fire hall he presumed he had gotten it.

Sometime later the night clerk at the teen's hotel came over to the fire hall and told the firemen that he thought there was a fire in the west end, as he could see the reflection and someone—a doctor—had been telephoning him about it.

The chief got his men onto the floor at once and tried to find out the location of the fire before he let the brigade out, but found it difficult to find anybody in the west end. While he was endeavoring to do so, Mr. Belcher, telephoning from Fourth street, sent in the required information and the brigade set out. The chief states this morning that the brigade stood nine minutes on the floor of the fire hall while he was trying to get the required information.

Wire Chief Macdonald states that he was in the telephone central at the time the call went through and although not at the switchboard he heard all calls answered but heard nothing of the fire or the fire hall until the chief commenced ringing and the second announcement of the fire came in. He explains the blunder by stating that the Queen's hotel number is "five, eight," into which "fire hall" might easily have been misconstrued by the man at the night wire.

Mr. Martin, the night clerk at the Queen's was seen this morning for his version. He says that someone called him up and told him there was a fire on Seventh street. The telephone was working badly and he could not get the name of the man who spoke, but heard him say he was doctor some-

WE ARE FACE TO FACE WITH COAL FAMINE

Distress wires from points down the line continue to pour in on local coal operators and not one so far received the assurance that the fuel supply in any of the towns will last a week.

Here is a sample of the kind of wire that is being received:

Forty Drowned IN PUGET SOUND

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18.—The passenger steamer Dix, with passengers and crew numbering 80 persons, was rammed and sunk by the ore steamer Jeannie in Puget Sound last night. Forty-one people, including women and children, were drowned. Captain Plummer, master of the Dix, tells the following story of the disaster:

"I don't know how it happened. Charles Denison, mate of the boat, was at the wheel. We were just about two miles due north of Alki point and running at the usual speed. It was a fine clear night and the water was like a mill pond. I had seen the lights of a steamer on our starboard quarter some time before, but had not paid any attention to them. I went below to collect fares. The boat was crowded. There were seventy passengers and it was quite a task to get all the fares. I had been on that run for thirteen years and knew everybody aboard. When I was in the ladies' cabin I heard the bell signal to stop. I knew something must be wrong and hurried forward. Just as I got on deck I saw the bow of a vessel loom up on the starboard side and almost instantly she struck us. The jibboom crashed through the Dix just aft of amidships and keeled her over like a top. She lay there for a minute or two with water rushing in all over. I was thrown against the deckhouse. For an instant the breath was knocked out of me and I was almost paralyzed. The steamer lay on her port beam for what seemed like two minutes. Another rush of water was mingled with cries and screams of men, women and children. From below came awful sounds. Many of the passengers were penned there and could not possibly escape. The Dix's bow began to lift and her stern went slowly down, until the bow was standing straight half out of the water. I clung to the railing and the sight filled me with horror. The lights were still burning and I could see people inside the cabin. The expressions on their faces were of indescribable despair. They fought desperately to gain the deck and their shouts and cries were awful. People on deck slid off into the water shrieking and desperately clutching at the water or at the Jeannie, which still loomed only a few yards away. Some of the passengers who had been on the deck at the time of the collision jumped to the rigging of the Jeannie's bowsprit, and in this way clambered up to safety. When the Dix began to go down I leaped into the water and managed to keep myself afloat. All around me were floating heads and we watched the Jeannie as she slowly came towards us and dropped boats which moved here and there picking up men in every direction. Finally a boat came to me. I had been in the water about ten minutes. When we were taken on board the Jeannie I found and crew, had been saved. The rest were drowned. There was no sign of my little steamer. She was gone completely, and before we left there was not even a ripple on the surface to mark the place where the tragedy had occurred."

ATLANTIC SHIPPING

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 18.—With two of her crew severely injured, her steering gear disabled, and otherwise seriously damaged, the steamer Dundee arrived here today, after a terrible voyage across the Atlantic. The Dundee's captain reported that owing to the condition of her steering gear, the steamer narrowly escaped going ashore while trying to make this port last night. The Dundee sailed from the city whose name she bears twelve days ago bound for Montreal, and the entire voyage was a constant battle with wind and sea. It became necessary to put in here to make repairs and to send the injured men to the hospital. The men hurt are a seaman and the third engineer. The sailor has a broken leg and the engineer was severely crushed in the Dundee's machinery.

SEED GRAIN FAIR.

The monthly meeting of the Strathcona branch of the Farmers' Association of Alberta, was held on Saturday, November 10th in the fire hall. The Seed Grain Fair, which is to be conducted under the management of the branch, was discussed, and in order to make this fair a great success it was suggested that Edmonton and the neighboring branches unite and that the fair be held on the Edmonton exhibition grounds. Secretary Shippard reported that three cars of oats had left the spur line and all that had passed Winnipeg had been graded No. 1 White Grade. The price for No. 1 on the date of arrival at Port Arthur, was 34 1/2c. Deducting the freight rate of 8 1/2c per bushel, and commission of one cent there is left to the farmer a rate of 25 cents per bushel, while the top price paid in Strathcona to date has been 22 cents. The next meeting, at which officers will be elected for the ensuing year will be held on December 8th, and it is hoped by that time that the present membership of 83 will be increased to 100 or more.

EVENING DRESS SUITS
The Changes This Year are Hardly Noticeable, but Necessary.

There are only a few minor changes in the prevailing styles of dress coats, but the minor changes are the more important because of the securing of the necessary style.

Few gentlemen nowadays think of ordering a dress coat from a ready-made tailor. Making but a few such suits each year, the tailor cannot begin to create the style or produce the finished garment which one can buy at the Semi-Ready Warehouse, and have finished to order in a few hours. Semi-ready dress suits, are sold at $25, $30, and as high as $40, while Tuxedo jackets, with silk facings, can be had as low as $15. Kelly & Moore will show the real Semi-Ready label to anyone. It is on the inside pocket of coats, trousers and overcoats.

SMALL THINGS

The Journal has lately made a reputation as one of the most unreliable newspapers in the west. In its political discussions it has no regard whatever for facts. Its charge against the Attorney General for not having expenditures made upon roads near Edmonton, was shown to be absolutely untrue. Later on it had a banquet at Gleichen with disturbances in the Liberal ranks, said banquet existing only in the Journal's extremity for a story.

Its latest freak is to state that the Bulletin is paid for the publication of its cartoons of leading citizens of Edmonton and Strathcona. This is not true and the Journal knew it wasn't true, but the temptation to say a mean thing of a contemporary has a greater influence upon the Journal than truth and newspaper decency can ever hope to have. There are some pretty small things in this world and they are usually spiteful and untruthful.

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP

Few positions in this province are quite as precarious as the leadership of the Conservative party. At their provincial convention Mr. R. B. Bennett was elected leader though the Calgary Herald had made a characteristic attempt to assassinate him a few days previous, using his "corporation connections" as a weapon.

In the election contest Mr. Bennett was defeated and Mr. C. Herbert, of Rosebud, being the only Conservative elected, was naturally the leader of the party in the legislature. Mr. Herbert's enjoyment of the position was short-lived, however, as on a recent Mr. Robertson was elected for High River, and when the legislature met he took the highest seat in the synogue and took upon himself the duties of leader of the minority in the house.

For a time Mr. Robertson seemed secure in his position and it looked as though he was the permanent occupant of the first seat on the Speaker's left, but alas the hand of fate, or rather the hand of his friends, is also against him. A bye-election is pending in Gleichen and a Mr. Walsh is the Conservative candidate and is hailed by a certain faction of the party as the man who is to be the real leader of the opposition. He is the new Moses who is going to lead the poor benighted forces into the promised land.

Just what Mr. Robertson thinks of this new "nest of traitors" has not yet been made public and just how he is to be deposed and Mr. Walsh elevated to the position is not very clear. Verily uneasy lies the head that wears the crown of Conservative leadership in Alberta.

THE CITY AND THE C. P. R.

Now that the C.P.R. representatives have left town and we have had time to look more closely into the proposed agreement, it becomes more and more apparent that the Council acted wisely in deferring action upon it. The experience of Edmonton has been that the railways have demanded everything and have conceded nothing, and when in the face of the bold demand of the C.P.R. to close two important thoroughfares without any equivalent on their part the committee managed, after a prolonged conference to secure a subway on Jasper avenue, they naturally felt that they might congratulate themselves on getting even this much from the company. But a little reflection seems to make it doubtful if the city would not be paying unnecessarily dear in accepting the present agreement.

The vital question after all is the closing, and the permanent closing of two out of the three leading thoroughfares running westward and the crippling of the third. With the fencing off on the north of a stretch of over a mile in the very heart of the city by the yards of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. it becomes all the more important to keep open the existing outlets to the west. In that direction to a large extent the future growth of Edmonton may be expected. The buildings that are being erected, the price at which land is held, the lots that have been laid out, and, to a large extent, taken up, in the west end, all indicate that faith of the people in this future growth. Before the streets can be closed the owners of this property must be reconciled with. The city charter provides that by-laws may be passed for closing and selling or leasing a public highway, but no such by-law shall be passed until notice has been published for two weeks nor until any person who claims "that his land will be injuriously affected thereby and petitions to be heard has been afforded an opportunity to be heard by himself or his agent in relation to the proposed by-law." In the face of this provision the council may well hesitate to commit themselves to an agreement that would amount to a prejudicing of the case before the property owners are heard.

The charter further provides that any such person so claiming, petitioning, and appearing shall be entitled to be compensated for all damages to his land by reason of anything done under the By-law, the compensation to be determined by arbitration, if not agreed upon. Have the council taken time to count the cost or to reckon the number of arbitrations that this may involve?

And what of the future? If Edmonton is to become the city that we all count upon, if it is to approach, in the not too remote future, the present size of Winnipeg, not to speak of Toronto or Montreal, there will surely come a time when it will become not a question of cost, not a question of convenience merely, but a matter of absolute necessity that both Peace and Athabasca avenues shall be open as well as Jasper. If our council of 1905, with the light of experience to guide them, undertake to close these streets without at least providing for the reopening of them by subway or bridge when absolute necessity shall demand it, they will be doing a great injury to the city of the future, and an injury which may now be avoided.

What is the city getting for this? A subway on Jasper avenue—the one remaining thoroughfare crippled and despoiled, its magnificent width of one hundred feet reduced to sixty, its clear level grade carried twenty feet underground, a block on each side of Ninth street spoiled by the approaches of the subway. A subway may be safer for the long suffering public than a level crossing, but it is a subway after all, and at the best is a loss to the city that can hardly be measured, as compared with the unobstructed street which we have today.

Add to this that we have to pay part of the expense of it. The company only makes the excavation for the subway, the retaining walls of the subway and its approaches and the superstructure for carrying the tracks. The city constructs and maintains at its expense the roadway or floor of the subway, it pays all damages to property owners whose property may be injured. Can any one say what these damages will amount to? The agreement does not specifically provide for the future maintenance of the subway and its approaches. This should be made clear.

On Victoria, McKay and Hardisty avenues provision is made for bridges. At best, what can these bridges be but eyesores, destroying the beauty of these avenues, reducing their width from eighty to forty feet, cutting off by their approaches portions of the streets to the east and west of the bridges? As compared with the unobstructed street the city is again the loser.

The Railway Act puts upon the company the obligation to bridge a street which they do not cross on the level. It has not been explained why the City should be at the expense of constructing approaches, maintaining them for all time to come, maintaining the flooring of the bridges, becoming liable for damages for accidents due to defects in approaches or bridges, and payment of damages to property owners. And it has not been explained why the city should consent to the reduction of these avenues to forty feet in width.

This company secures an uninterrupted track from Saskatchewan to Mackinac avenue—practically a yard in which it can do shunting or leave cars standing as it pleases. It secures this yard in the very heart of the city and at a minimum of expense. It has forty feet of land given to it on each of the avenues, Hardisty, McKay, Victoria and Jasper, and eighty feet on Athabasca and Peace avenues, outside of the railway and bridges. It secures freedom from liability for accidents at all these streets and it makes no concession in respect of the high level bridge.

In the light of this it looks as if the tentative agreement proposed conceals what it is not necessary to concede regarding the avenues south of Jasper and regarding the avenues north of Jasper what cannot be conceded with safety to the city's future interests. The council may well subject the agreement to a somewhat radical overhaul, eliminate the unnecessary concessions and insert the very necessary provision that the closed streets shall when deemed necessary be reopened at the company's expense.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Calgary Herald assails the Alberta Government because three members of the Legislative Assembly have received Governmental appointments, without, of course explaining that Senator DeGeyer, Judge Stewart, and Mr. McInnes received their appointments from the Federal and not the provincial Government. Neither does the Herald emphasize the fact that each of these appointments derived the Rutherford Government temporarily or a supporter in the House and drew a constituency down for a bye-election. If the Alberta Government had either a record or a policy in which it was afraid to meet the electors, even the Herald would hardly expect that government to regard with approval appointments which subjected Liberal seats to the uncertainties of bye-elections. For the Rutherford Administration can scarcely be accused of so little judgment or so much ill-placed confidence as to suppose that the election of a Conservative for a former Liberal riding would not be trumpeted abroad by the Calgary Herald as a condemnation of the Government, quite regardless of how, on what issues, or by what means the election had been won.

FROM DAY TO DAY

HEART'S ASLEEP.

We shut our hearts up nowadays, like some old music box that plays Cathedral airs that raise, Derivative pity.

And nothing starts the spring,
And in the sentimental thing At once commences quivering Its lover's ditty.

—Austin Dobson.

A CANDLESTICK.

One, long ago—I know not where nor when—
It cast its light upon some strange and hoary board,
And which, fur-cannanted, lounged a heron at last-eyed youth and swart, thick bearded man,
He drew him up their wine-wild faces, then
It caught the studded hilt of dirk and sword,
And stopped till, coarse-carousing with her lord,
Some jewelled woman flashed it back again.
Far from those mingled scenes of mirth and ire
This bit of brass forlornly braves its dew—
To waste with me the silent days of gloom,
To watch long nights of quietness and glow,
To share the lonely glimmer of my fire,
And cheer the hired bareness of my room.

—Margaret Ashmun.

This poem on an old Russian candlestick will particularly appeal to those who love old bric-a-brac or indeed any old bit of the days that are gone.

BURNS' MANUSCRIPTS.

Pierpont Morgan has recently imported what is said to be the most complete set in existence of the original manuscripts and private letters of Robert Burns, the Scotch poet. Mr. Morgan's agents have been scouring Great Britain for the last 15 years in order to secure the documents. An expense of no less than $200,000, it is estimated, has been so incurred. The manuscripts are in two books of some 400 pages apiece. They were nominally approved by the United States customs authorities at $25,000 each, and subjected to a duty of 50 per cent ad valorem, so that the Morgan customs bidders paid $100,000 duty.

It is believed to be the intention of Mr. Morgan to bequeath the Burns manuscripts and letters to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and that their importation is the forerunner of the arrival of numberless other European treasures of literature and art, of which Mr. Morgan is reported to have accumulated on the other side.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. John McDougall was the hostess at a particularly enjoyable luncheon Friday, covers being laid for ten. The guests included Mrs. Riddell, Mrs. Emory, Mrs. John Mc-Dougall, Jr., Mrs. Ewing, Mrs. Lafferty, Mrs. R. W. Day, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. H. R. Smith, and Mrs. John Ross. The hostess wore a black net over taffeta, with cream lace bodice.
Mrs. John McDougall who has but lately returned from her honeymoon, wore a lovely gown of soft grey silk celienne. The table decorations were of crimson and white roses with maid-enhair fern. The place cards, charming specimens of Japanese art, were souvenir of the hostess' recent trip through Japan. After luncheon the guests spent some time most agreeably in viewing the treasures of paintings and tapestry and statuary brought home by Mr. and Mrs. Mc-Dougall from their extended tour in Europe and Asia.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian Church will hold an informal reception in the rooms in connection with the church on next Tuesday evening, to make the acquaintance of new members of that congregation.

UPON SINCLAIR.

Have you read what the author of "The Jungle" says of himself in the November Cosmopolitan? In Edmonton we are far enough away from the "social pit," from the "wan and hungry faces"—and surplus money may go into coveted real estate instead of the upkeep of charities or help for the wretched. There are no poor here.
Capitalists may read "The Jungle" with easy minds. But Edmonton will come in time to some portion of the "social pit" that great commerce creates, and there we may judge of the value of Sinclair's hope that such experiences as he has known will have "become impossible for any man to have them again."

He writes: "The experiences of my life have been such that I cannot think of them without turning sick; there is no way that I can face the thought of them at all, save as being practice for the writing of 'The Jungle.' I see that it was necessary that someone should have had such experiences in order that it might become impossible for any man to have them again."

"People say to me, 'You won't be quite such a vigorous socialist now that you have made some money.' I do not try to tell them what I think of such a remark; I simply answer that I do not happen to be that sort of person. It is true that I am what the world calls famous, and shall also perhaps be rich; and I might go over to England if I chose, and meet with duchesses and lords, and be a 'personality.' But is there any place in the world where I could escape from the memory of my nights of fire and anguish of the tears that I shed and the vows that I took?
Is there any way that I could escape from the memory of the men and women and children whom I left behind meadow there in the social pit—from their wan and hungry faces, from their tears and cries of despair? If I think of the faces of these people that I cannot out; they made themselves into a ladder for me. It was their punies which kept me alive while I wrote my book; it was their words which cheered me on; when it was a question of allotting a publisher to mutilate it, they came forward—literally by the thousands—and saw me through. And now life seems to me a chance to prove to them that they were not mistaken."

At Lethbridge last week there took place the marriage of Miss Etta Maude Whitney, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
D. J. Whitney, and Mr. W. E. Haden of the Hudson's Bay Company, Winnipeg, Rev. Charles McKillop of Raymond officiating.

THE ROSCIANS.

The Roscian Opera company in its presentation of "Giraffe Giraffe," Saturday night at the Thistle rink scarcely satisfied with Lesog's frivolous opera its patrons who had mostly gone expecting to see "Said Pasha," although the change in the play bill had been announced. The company in preparing a particularly good offering for tonight, the society night, seem to have overlooked the demands of Saturday.
"Giraffe" is a tuncful, gay operatic bit, and was very well presented by the company, though in some portions the play of itself did not quite appeal to Edmontonians. Mr. Flavella was convincing and sufficiently amusing in his part of Don Boiero. Mr. Flavella is always very much at home in his part.
Mr. Walters' voice and Mr. Hoffman's were again heard to advantage, the pirates' chorus in which they were assisted by Mr. Dewey and Mr. Flavella being perhaps the most pleasing part of the night's performance. Miss Nola took the twin part of Giraffe-Giraffe very well; Miss Crowley made a merry Pajuta, Miss Godfrey as Don Bo-iero's wife filled her part in a finished manner, and Miss Palmer was an effective Pasha. The choruses, as usual, were good.

Cavalleria Rusticana and Pinafore by the Roscian Opera company at This-le rink this evening.

For tonight—Society Night—the presentation will be particularly good.
The scene of Cavalleria Rusticana is in a small village near Palermo, Sicily.
As the curtain rises peasants are seen wedding their way towards the village church to attend mass on this Easter morn. Santuzza is seen wedding her way slowly towards the home of Turiddu, the village pop—who has discarded her for the more seductive charms of Lola, the wife of Alfio, a carter. Turiddu appears and despite Santuzza's pleadings ignores and is about to strike her when the voice of Lola is heard singing a love song in the distance. She and Turiddu enter the church together and Santuzza faints at the portal. Alfio enters and Santuzza tells him of Lola's clandestine love for Turiddu. At the latter's reappearance he is challenged to a fatal duel by Alfio, who issues the challenge in the characteristic Sicilian manner of in-serting the teeth in the hole of his opponent's ear. Turiddu is killed in a thrilling climax. The case of Santuzza, Miss Nola; Turiddu, Mr. Walters; Al-fio, Mr. Campbell; Lola, Miss Godfrey; and Santuzza, Miss Crowley. Cavalleria will begin the performance followed by Gilbert and Sullivan's Pinafore. Fra Diavolo is the bill for Tuesday evening with Hilda Campbell in the title role.
